SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[Release No. 34-100859; File No. SR-BX-2024-031]

Self-Regulatory Organizations; Nasdaq BX, Inc.; Notice of Filing and Immediate Effectiveness of Proposed Rule Change To Amend Options 3, Sections 15 and 25

August 28, 2024.

Pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Act"),¹ and Rule 19b-4 thereunder,² notice is hereby given that on August 20, 2024, Nasdaq BX, Inc. ("BX" or "Exchange") filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") the proposed rule change as described in Items I, II, and III, below, which Items have been prepared by the Exchange. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The Exchange proposes to amend its Rules at Options 3, Sections 15 and 25.

The text of the proposed rule change is available on the Exchange's website at <https://listingcenter.nasdaq.com/rulebook/nasdaq/rules>, at the principal office of the Exchange, and at the Commission's Public Reference Room.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the Exchange included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

BX proposes to amend Options 3, Section 25, Anonymity, to permit trade reports to reveal certain additional information concerning contra parties. The Exchange also proposes an amendment to Options 3, Section 15, Risk Protections. Each change will be described below.

Anonymity

Today, transaction reports produced by the System indicate the details of the transactions, but do not reveal "contra party identities" pursuant to Options 3, Section 25(a). In limited circumstances, BX will reveal a Participant's identity as described in Options 3, Section 25(b).³

Background

Today, BX does not display any market participant capacity information⁴ prior to execution, nor does BX provide transaction reports that include contra party identities.⁵ For example, BX does not reveal the market capacity in its BX Top of Market (BX Top) feed.⁶ Additionally, BX provides a

³ Pursuant to Options 3, Section 25(b), BX will reveal a Participant's identity: (1) when a registered clearing agency ceases to act for a participant, or the Participant's clearing firm, and the registered clearing agency determines not to guarantee the settlement of the Participant's trades; (2) for regulatory purposes or to comply with an order of an arbitrator or court; (3) if both Participants to the transaction consent; and (4) Unless otherwise instructed by a Member, BX will reveal to a member, no later than the end of the day on the date an anonymous trade was executed, when the member's Order has been decremented by another Order submitted by that same member.

⁴ A market participant capacity is a code that correlates to the capacity of an order at The Options Clearing Corporation ("OCC").

⁵ The contra party identity is the mnemonic or house account for the contra side of the trade. The term "mnemonic" means an acronym comprised of letters and/or numbers assigned to Participants pursuant to Options 1, Section 1(a)(32). A Participant account may be associated with multiple mnemonics. A house account is a number provided by the Exchange to identify members.

⁶ Pursuant to Options 3, Section 23(a)(2), BX Top of Market (BX Top) calculates and disseminates BX's best bid and offer and last sale information for trades executed on BX Options. The feed also Clearing Trade Interface⁷ message for post-trade reporting and a Trade Details report⁸ that do not display contra party identities.

Unlike BX, other options exchanges are not anonymous and display market participant capacity prior to execution and provide transaction reports with contra party identities.⁹ For example, Phlx displays market participants capacity information in its PHLX Orders feed,¹⁰ and MIAX provides a Clearing Trade Drop report¹¹ with the contra party MPID displayed.

With this amendment, BX's CTI would provide the house account of the contra party and BX's Trade Detail report would provide the mnemonic, firm name, and other relevant clearing information of the contra party. These changes would be identical to the CTI and Trade Detail Report contra party information provided by Phlx, ISE, GEMX and MRX and analogous to the contra party information that MIAX provides its members.

provides last trade information and for each options series includes the symbols (series and underlying security), put or call indicator, expiration date, the strike price of the series, and whether the option series is available for trading on BX and identifies if the series is available for closing transactions only.

⁸ The Trade Details report is a report containing all of a member's executed trades along with all relevant trade information, and clearing information.

⁹ See e.g. Nasdaq Phlx, LLC ("Phlx"), Nasdaq ISE, LLC ("ISE"), Nasdaq GEMX, LLC ("GEMX") and Nasdaq MRX, LLC ("MRX") and MIAX.

¹⁰ Pursuant to Options 3, Section 23(a)(2), PHLX Orders is a real-time full Limit Order book data feed that provides pricing information for orders on the PHLX Order book for displayed order types as well as market participant capacity. PHLX Orders is currently provided as part of the TOPO Plus Orders data product. PHLX Orders provides real-time information to enable users to keep track of the single and complex order book(s). The data provided for each options series includes the symbols (series and underlying security), put or call indicator, expiration date, the strike price of the series, leg information on complex strategies and whether the option series is available for trading on Phlx and identifies if the series is available for closing transactions only. The feed also provides auction and exposure notifications and order imbalances on opening/reopening (size of matched contracts and size of the imbalance).

Ovation

In terms of workflow, today, BX's System executes an order, the trade information for that order is sent to OCC and includes contra party identities. OCC then disseminates trade messages that contain a matched trade per record with both buy and sell sides of an order, also revealing contra party identities.

OCC announced that it will amend its platform, with project Ovation, in 2025.¹² Among other changes, OCC will amend trade reporting and will split the trade into two trade messages; one for the buyer and one for the seller. As a result of this change, OCC Clearing Members will only receive the clearing message relevant to their side(s) of the trade and exchanges will receive both messages and will need to link each trade by clearing sequence numbers, exchange and business date.¹³ Therefore, BX Participants will no longer receive trade message information from OCC that reveals contra party identities. BX Participants have requested that the Exchange offer contra party identities, similar to other exchanges, on its post-trade reporting because this information is essential information for reconciliations when there are errors or clearing breaks especially on an expiring option or option with a pending corporate action. Additionally, contra party identities are important in the event of an obvious or catastrophic error. Without this information, a representing broker dealer would be less able to input trade detail to the Exchange in a timely manner.

Proposal

At this time, at the request of several BX Participants, BX proposes to amend Options 3, Section 25, Anonymity, to permit the Exchange to reveal contra party identities, post-trade, to provide BX Participants with information that OCC provides today and that other options exchanges also provide today.¹⁴ Specifically, the Exchange proposes to amend Options 3, Section 25(a) which currently states, "The transaction reports produced by the System will indicate the details of the transactions and shall not reveal contra party identities." As amended, Options 3, Section 25(a) would provide, "Orders and quotes entered into the System will be displayed anonymously and, as such, will trade anonymously. Transaction reports produced by the System (i.e. the Clearing Trade Interface and the Trade Details report) will indicate the details of the transactions, and will include contra party identities."

Today, options trades on BX are not completely anonymous through settlement as they are submitted by the Exchange to OCC with contra-side OCC member information. The Exchange believes that this amendment will continue to provide Participants with anonymity when transacting options orders on BX, while also providing Participants with post-trade contra party identities as a replacement for the data that OCC is providing today and will no longer be provided with OCC's technology migration. BX's post trade reporting (i.e. the Clearing Trade Interface and the Trade Details report) would provide information identical to or analogous to other options exchanges that display contra party identities.¹⁵

Acceptable Trade Range

The Exchange proposes to amend Options 3, Section 15(b)(1), which describes the Acceptable Trade Range. Today, BX's System calculates an Acceptable Trade Range to limit the range of prices at which an order and/or quote (except an All-or-None Order) will be allowed to execute. The Acceptable Trade Range is calculated by taking the Reference Price, plus or minus a value to be determined by the Exchange. (i.e., the Reference Price—(x) for sell orders/quotes and the Reference Price + (x) for buy orders/quotes). Upon receipt of a new order/quote, the Reference Price is the better of the National Best Bid ("NBB") or internal best bid for sell orders/quotes and the National Best Offer ("NBO") or internal best offer for buy orders/quotes or the last price at which the order/quote is posted whichever is higher for a buy order/quote or lower for a sell order/quote.

If an order/quote reaches the outer limit of the Acceptable Trade Range (the "Threshold Price") without being fully executed, it will be posted at the Threshold Price for a brief period, not to exceed one second ("Posting Period"), to allow more liquidity to be collected, unless a Quote Exhaust has occurred, in which case the Quote Exhaust process in Options 3, Section 6(a)(ii)(B)(3) will ensue, triggering a new Reference Price. Upon posting, either the current Threshold Price of the order or an updated NBB for buy orders or the NBO for sell orders (whichever is higher for a buy order/lower for a sell order) then becomes the Reference Price for calculating a new Acceptable Trade Range. If the order/quote remains unexecuted after the Posting Period, a New Acceptable Trade Range will be calculated and the order/quote will execute, route, or post up to the new Acceptable Trade Range Threshold Price, unless a member organization has requested that their orders be returned if posted at the outer limit of the Acceptable Trade Range (in which case, the order will be returned).

Today, the System permits a BX Participant to request that their order be returned to them if posted at the outer limit of the Acceptable Trade Range instead of executing, routing or posting to the order book. This functionality, which is not specified in the current rule, provides a BX Participant with additional choice as to the price at which their order could execute. The Exchange proposes to reflect this existing functionality in Options 3, Section 15(b)(1)(A) to make clear that the choice exists to have an order returned. Today, Phlx offers this functionality.¹⁶

Implementation

The Exchange proposes to implement the amendments to Options 3, Section 25 on or before March 31, 2025. The Exchange would announce the date of implementation in an Options Trader Alert ahead of the implementation date. No implementation is necessary for the change to the Acceptable Trade Range rule.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that its proposal is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act,¹⁷ in general, and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act,¹⁸ in particular, in that it is designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general to protect investors and the public interest.

Anonymity

BX's proposal to amend Options 3, Section 25 to reveal contra party identities post-trade promotes just and equitable principles of trade, and removes impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system because it would provide BX Participants with identical or analogous post trade information (i.e. the Clearing Trade Interface and the Trade Details report) that OCC and other options exchanges¹⁹ provide these market participants today. BX Participants have requested that the Exchange offer contra party identities, similar to other exchanges, on its post-trade reporting because this information is essential information for reconciliations when there are errors or clearing breaks especially on an expiring option or option with a pending corporate action. Additionally, contra party identities are important in the event of an obvious or catastrophic error. Without this information, a representing broker dealer would be less able to input trade detail to the Exchange in a timely manner.

Today, options trades are not completely anonymous through settlement as they are submitted by the Exchange to OCC with contra-side identities. This amendment will continue to provide BX Participants with anonymity when transacting options orders on BX pre-trade, while also providing Participants with post-trade contra party identities as a replacement for the data that OCC is providing today and will no longer provide with OCC's technology migration.

Acceptable Trade Range

The Exchange's proposal to amend Options 3, Section 15(b)(1), which describes the Acceptable Trade Range, to note that, ". . . unless a Participant has requested that their orders be returned if posted at the outer limit of the Acceptable Trade Range (in which case, the order will be returned) . . ." protects investors and the public interest because it permits BX Participants to elect to have their orders returned to them if posted at the outer limit of the Acceptable Trade Range instead of executing, routing or posting to the order book. This functionality provides Participants with additional choice as to the price at which their order could execute. The Acceptable Trade Range functionality is intended to reduce the negative impacts of sudden, unanticipated volatility in individual options, and serve to preserve an orderly market in a transparent and uniform manner, enhance the price-discovery process, increase overall market confidence, and promote fair and orderly markets and the protection of investors. The Exchange proposes to reflect this existing functionality in Options 3, Section 15(b)(1)(A) to make clear that the option exists to have an order returned. Today, Phlx offers this functionality.²⁰

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

Anonymity

The Exchange's proposal does not impose an undue burden on intramarket competition because all BX Participants currently have the ability to view contra party identities at OCC once the trade executes. With this amendment, all Participants will be able to continue to have the ability to view contra party identities through BX's post trade reporting. Further, to the extent that BX fails to provide equivalent post trade information to its Participants as other options exchanges provide today, it would be at a competitive disadvantage as market participants have expressed the importance to receiving this information.

The Exchange's proposal does not impose an undue burden on intermarket competition because other options exchanges²¹ provide contra party identities today post-trade. Other options markets could also adopt an anonymity rule similar to BX.

Acceptable Trade Range

The Exchange's proposal to amend Options 3, Section 15(b)(1) does not impose an undue burden on intramarket competition because all Participants would have the ability to have their orders returned to them.

The Exchange's proposal to amend Options 3, Section 15(b)(1) does not impose an undue burden on intermarket competition because other options exchanges could adopt similar functionality.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants, or Others

No written comments were either solicited or received.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Because the foregoing proposed rule change does not: (i) significantly affect the protection of investors or the public interest; (ii) impose any significant burden on competition; and (iii) become
