2. Procedures of the Self-Regulatory Organization

The proposed rule change was approved by senior management of the Exchange pursuant to authority delegated by the Board of Directors (the “Board”). 3. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

   a. Purpose

   Pursuant to Nasdaq Listing Rule 5815, companies may seek review of a determination by the Nasdaq’s Listing Qualifications Department (“LQ Staff”) to deny initial listing or delist a company’s securities or to issue a Public Reprimand Letter, by requesting a hearing before an independent Hearings Panel (the “Hearings Panel”). Listing Rule 5815(a)(3) provides that to request a hearing, the company must, within 15 calendar days of the date of the LQ Staff delisting determination, public reprimand letter, or written denial of an initial listing application, submit a hearing fee in the amount of $10,000. Companies may also appeal a Hearings Panel decision to the Nasdaq Listing and Hearing Review Council (the “NLHRC”). Listing Rule 5820(a) requires a company seeking such an appeal to submit a fee of $10,000. Nasdaq last changed these fees in 2013. Nasdaq now proposes to increase the fee for review by a Hearings Panel to $20,000 and the fee to appeal a Hearings Panel decision to the NLHRC to $15,000. Nasdaq is increasing the fees because the costs incurred in preparing for and conducting hearings and appeals have increased since the fees were last changed.

The costs of the review process include significant time and resources to maintain the infrastructure for the processes and to prepare for and conduct individual hearings and appeals. For example, with respect to review by the Hearings Panels, Nasdaq incurs expenses related to the Nasdaq staff that facilitates the hearings and provides legal counsel and support to the independent Hearings Panel members, the honorarium paid to the Hearings Panel members, and the cost of maintaining a transcript of the hearing. LQ Staff reviews each company’s submissions to the Hearings Panel and provides the Hearings Panel with its analysis of the company’s plans; LQ Staff also provides written submissions in support of the delisting, listing denial, or Public Reprimand determination. In addition, in some matters LQ Staff attends hearings to respond to presentations by the company and answer questions from the Hearings Panel members. Where hearings are held in person, Nasdaq also incurs expenses related to securing and maintaining a location for the hearings and travel expenses for Hearings Panel members. Staff also must manage and coordinate the Hearings Panel dockets, maintain the systems that track hearing matters, draft initial decisions for review by the Hearings Panel members, and monitor post-hearing compliance efforts in matters where the Hearings Panel has granted the company a period of time to cure a deficiency.

There are also additional costs associated with the NLHRC review of every Hearings Panel decision, in determining whether to call that decision for review as described in Rule 5820(b). In that regard, Nasdaq incurs expenses related to the Nasdaq staff that facilitates the call for review process and that provides legal counsel and support to the NLHRC members, as well as the honorarium paid to the NLHRC members. When a matter is called for review, Nasdaq also incurs costs related to the staff in the Listing Qualifications Department, which reviews the company’s submissions to the NLHRC and provides the NLHRC with LQ Staff’s analysis of the company’s plans and any issues identified by the NLHRC in its call for review. Nasdaq staff also must manage and coordinate the NLHRC docket, maintain the systems that track call for review matters, and draft initial decisions for review by NLHRC members. Nasdaq believes that these additional costs for the call for review process are appropriately considered as part of the cost of the Hearings Panel review, since every Hearings Panel decision is subject to review by the NLHRC and the decision as to whether to call a matter for review rests with the NLHRC.

Where a company appeals a matter to the NLHRC, there are similar additional costs as well, which Nasdaq believes should be borne by the company through the appeal fee. Specifically, like where a decision is called for review, when a company appeals a decision Nasdaq incurs expenses related to the Nasdaq staff that facilitates the process and that provides legal counsel and support to the NLHRC members, the honorarium paid to the NLHRC members, LQ Staff review and analysis of the company’s submissions to the NLHRC, management of the docket, maintaining the systems that track NLHRC appellate matters and drafting the initial decisions for review by NLHRC members.

Throughout the hearing and NLHRC process, the Exchange incurs costs to maintain and upgrade its electronic systems for tracking companies and maintaining a clear record, as required by Nasdaq and SEC rules. It also maintains lists on its website, updated every business day, that reflect the status of all companies in the deficiency process\(^6\) and frequently asked questions providing transparency to companies and investors about the delisting and deficiency process, as well as the initial listing process.\(^7\)

All of these expenses have increased in the ten years since the fees were last changed in 2013. In addition, due to changes in procedures over time, Nasdaq devotes more staff time and resources to certain matters.\(^8\) Accordingly, Nasdaq proposes to increase the fee to request review by a Hearings Panel to $20,000 and the fee for an appeal to the NLRHC to $15,000. Nasdaq believes that this is an equitable allocation based on the expenses incurred in connection with each portion of the overall appellate process.

The revised fees for a hearing will be applicable to issuers that are sent a delisting determination, public reprimand letter, or written denial of an initial listing application after February 10, 2023, the date of filing of this proposed rule change. Similarly, the revised fees for an appeal of a Hearings Panel decision to the NLHRC will be applicable

In addition, there are summaries of over 100 prior NLHRC decisions.

\(^8\) For example, in October 2020 the Commission approved changes to the procedures governing the introduction of information during the hearing process. As a result, whereas previously companies typically provided a single submission to the Hearings Panel, companies now typically submit both a Written Submission and a Written Update to the Hearings Panel, and LQ Staff must review and react to each. See Rule 5815(a)(5) and Securities Exchange Act Release No. 90201 (October 15, 2020) 85 FR 67024 (October 21, 2020) (approving SR-NASDAQ-2020-002).
to issuers that receive a Hearings Panel decision after February 10, 2023. The current fees will remain in effect for any company that received a Staff delisting determination, denial of a listing application, or public reprimand letter, or a Hearings Panel decision on or before February 10, 2023.9

The revised fees will allow Nasdaq to recoup a portion of the expenses it incurs in the review and appeal processes that will more closely approximate its actual costs associated with those processes. The Exchange has reviewed all costs associated with delisting appeals and does not expect or intend that the fees will exceed the costs.10

b. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that its proposal is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act,11 in general, and furthers the objectives of Sections 6(b)(4) and 6(b)(5) of the Act,12 in particular, in that it provides for the equitable allocation of reasonable dues, fees and other charges among members and issuers and other persons using any facility, and is not designed to permit unfair discrimination between customers, issuers, brokers, or dealers.

Specifically, the proposed fee increase is reasonable because it will better reflect Nasdaq’s costs related to hearings and appeals. Nasdaq has not increased these fees since 9 Companies are notified about their ability to request a hearing, and the fees associated with such a hearing, in the Staff determination letter. They are notified of the fees associated with an appeal in the Hearings Panel decision, which also includes a notice of the right to appeal. As proposed, Nasdaq would only charge the new fee to companies that were not already advised of the prior fee in the applicable decision letter.

10 A precise cost-per-hearing analysis is not possible given the need to maintain an infrastructure for which the Exchange incurs expenses irrespective of the number of hearings or appeals requested in a given year.

12 15 U.S.C. 78f(b)(4) and (5).
2013, but its costs have increased since that time. The fees will help offset the costs of conducting hearings and appeals, which serve to ensure that Nasdaq’s listing standards are properly enforced for the protection of investors. The proposed changes are equitable and not unfairly discriminatory because they would apply equally to all companies that choose to request a hearing for review of a delisting determination, public reprimand letter or denial of initial listing, or to appeal a Hearings Panel decision. In addition, aligning the fees for hearings with the underlying costs of the review process is equitable because doing so will help minimize the extent that companies that are compliant with all listing standards may subsidize the costs of review for companies that are non-compliant.

Nasdaq also believes that the proposed fees are consistent with the investor protection objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act in that they are designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to a free and open market and national market systems, and in general to protect investors and the public interest. Specifically, the fees are designed to provide adequate resources for appropriate preparation to conduct reviews of Nasdaq Listing Qualifications’ staff determinations and appeals of Hearings Panel decisions, which help to assure that the Exchanges’ listing standards are properly enforced and investors are protected.

Nasdaq also believes that the proposed changes are consistent with Section 6(b)(7) of the Act in that the proposed fees are consistent with the provision by the Exchange of a fair procedures for the prohibition or limitation by the Exchange of any person with respect to access to services offered by the Exchange. In particular, the Exchange believes that the proposed amended fees should not deter listed issuers from availing themselves of the right to appeal because the fees will still be set at a level that will be affordable for listed companies. Nasdaq does not believe that the proposed fee is unduly burdensome or would discourage any company from seeking a hearing or appeal.

4. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement on Burden on Competition

Nasdaq does not believe that the proposed rule change will result in any burden on competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act, as amended. As discussed above, this proposed fee is based on the increase in costs to the Exchange to provide a delisting review process, which is in turn necessary to ensure investor protection as well as a transparent process for issuers. Moreover, the market for listing services is extremely competitive and listed companies may freely choose alternative venues based on the aggregate fees assessed, and the value provided by each listing. This rule proposal does not burden competition with other listing venues, which are similarly free to align their fees on the costs incurred by the process they offer. For this reason, and the reasons discussed in connection with the statutory basis for the proposed rule change, Nasdaq does not believe that the proposed rule change will result in any burden on competition for listings.

5. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received from Members, Participants, or Others

Written comments were neither solicited nor received.

6. Extension of Time Period for Commission Action

Not applicable.
7. Basis for Summary Effectiveness Pursuant to Section 19(b)(3) or for Accelerated Effectiveness Pursuant to Section 19(b)(2)

Pursuant to Section 19(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act, the Exchange has designated this proposal as establishing or changing a due, fee, or other charge imposed by the self-regulatory organization on any person, whether or not the person is a member of the self-regulatory organization, which renders the proposed rule change effective upon filing.

At any time within 60 days of the filing of the proposed rule change, the Commission summarily may temporarily suspend such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is: (i) necessary or appropriate in the public interest; (ii) for the protection of investors; or (iii) otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. If the Commission takes such action, the Commission shall institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule should be approved or disapproved.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the Exchange included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.
A. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

Pursuant to Nasdaq Listing Rule 5815, companies may seek review of a determination by the Nasdaq’s Listing Qualifications Department (“LQ Staff”) to deny initial listing or delist a company’s securities or to issue a Public Reprimand Letter, by requesting a hearing before an independent Hearings Panel (the “Hearings Panel”). Listing Rule 5815(a)(3) provides that to request a hearing, the company must, within 15 calendar days of the date of the LQ Staff delisting determination, public reprimand letter, or written denial of an initial listing application, submit a hearing fee in the amount of $10,000. Companies may also appeal a Hearings Panel decision to the Nasdaq Listing and Hearing Review Council (the “NLHRC”). Listing Rule 5820(a) requires a company seeking such an appeal to submit a fee of $10,000. Nasdaq last changed these fees in 2013. Nasdaq now proposes to increase the fee for review by a Hearings Panel to $20,000 and the fee to appeal a Hearings Panel decision to the NLHRC to $15,000. Nasdaq is increasing the fees because the costs incurred in preparing for and conducting hearings and appeals have increased since the fees were last changed. The costs of the review process include significant time and resources to maintain the infrastructure for the processes and to prepare for and conduct individual hearings and appeals. For example, with respect to review by the Hearings Panels, Nasdaq incurs expenses related to the Nasdaq staff that facilitates the hearings and provides legal counsel and support to the independent Hearings Panel members, the honorarium paid to the Hearings Panel members, and the cost of maintaining a transcript of the hearing. LQ Staff reviews each company’s submissions to the Hearings Panel and provides the Hearings Panel with its analysis of the company’s plans; LQ Staff also provides written submissions in support of the delisting, listing denial, or Public Reprimand determination. In addition, in some matters LQ Staff attends hearings to respond to presentations by the company and answer questions from the Hearings Panel members. Where hearings are held in person, Nasdaq also incurs expenses related to securing and maintaining a location for the hearings and travel expenses for Hearings Panel members. Staff also must manage and coordinate the Hearings Panel dockets, maintain the systems that track hearing matters, draft initial decisions for review by the Hearings Panel members, and monitor post-hearing compliance efforts in matters where the Hearings Panel has granted the company a period of time to cure a deficiency.

There are also additional costs associated with the NLHRC review of every Hearings Panel decision, in determining whether to call that decision for review as described in Rule 5820(b). In that regard, Nasdaq incurs expenses related to the Nasdaq staff that facilitates the call for review process and that provides legal counsel and support to the NLHRC members, as well as the honorarium paid to the NLHRC members. When a matter is called for review, Nasdaq also incurs costs related to the staff in the Listing Qualifications Department, which reviews the company’s submissions to the NLHRC and provides the NLHRC with LQ Staff’s analysis of the company’s plans and any issues identified by the NLHRC in its call for review. Nasdaq staff also must manage and coordinate the NLHRC docket, maintain the systems that track call for review matters, and draft initial decisions for review by NLHRC members. Nasdaq believes that these additional costs for the call for review process are appropriately considered as part of the cost of the Hearings Panel review, since every Hearings Panel decision is subject to review by the NLHRC and the decision as to whether to call a matter for review rests with the NLHRC.

Where a company appeals a matter to the NLHRC, there are similar additional costs as well, which Nasdaq believes should be borne by the company through the appeal fee. Specifically, like where a decision is called for review, when a company appeals a decision Nasdaq incurs expenses related to the Nasdaq staff that facilitates the process and that provides legal counsel and support to the NLHRC members, the honorarium paid to the NLHRC members, LQ Staff review and analysis of the company’s submissions to the NLHRC, management of the docket, maintaining the systems that track NLHRC appellate matters and drafting the initial decisions for review by NLHRC members.

Throughout the hearing and NLHRC process, the Exchange incurs costs to maintain and upgrade its electronic systems for tracking companies and maintaining a clear record, as required by Nasdaq and SEC rules. It also maintains lists on its website, updated every business day, that reflect the status of all companies in the deficiency process and frequently asked questions providing transparency to companies and investors about the delisting and deficiency process, as well as the initial listing process.

aligning the fees for hearings with the underlying costs of the review process is equitable because doing so will help minimize the extent that companies that are compliant with all listing standards may subsidize the costs of review for companies that are non-compliant.

Nasdaq also believes that the proposed fees are consistent with the investor protection objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act\(^\text{13}\) in that they are designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to a free and open market and national market systems, and in general to protect investors and the public interest. Specifically, the fees are designed to provide adequate resources for appropriate preparation to conduct reviews of Nasdaq Listing Qualifications’ staff determinations and appeals of Hearings Panel decisions, which help to assure that the Exchanges’ listing standards are properly enforced and investors are protected.

Nasdaq also believes that the proposed changes are consistent with Section 6(b)(7) of the Act\(^\text{14}\) in that the proposed fees are consistent with the provision by the Exchange of a fair procedures for the prohibition or limitation by the Exchange of any person with respect to access to services offered by the Exchange. In particular, the Exchange believes that the proposed amended fees should not deter listed issuers from availing themselves of the right to appeal because the fees will still be set at a level that will be affordable for listed companies. Nasdaq does not believe that the proposed fee is unduly burdensome or would discourage any company from seeking a hearing or appeal.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement on Burden on Competition

Nasdaq does not believe that the proposed rule change will result in any burden on competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the

Act, as amended. As discussed above, this proposed fee is based on the increase in costs to the Exchange to provide a delisting review process, which is in turn necessary to ensure investor protection as well as a transparent process for issuers. Moreover, the market for listing services is extremely competitive and listed companies may freely choose alternative venues based on the aggregate fees assessed, and the value provided by each listing. This rule proposal does not burden competition with other listing venues, which are similarly free to align their fees on the costs incurred by the process they offer. For this reason, and the reasons discussed in connection with the statutory basis for the proposed rule change, Nasdaq does not believe that the proposed rule change will result in any burden on competition for listings.
